TRUTH STRANGER THAN FICTION Mouth to mouth testimony by some of the thous-ands cured by Hampton's Vegetable Tinoture. PALPITATION OF THE HEART.

PORT ROTAL, Va., July 27th, 1852.

Messrs. Mortimer & Mowbray: Gents—We have gain to send an order for more of your truly wonderful "Hampton's Vegetable Tincture." Since it was first tried it has sold without an effort, and we have not seen the first person who has not been greatly benefitted by its use. A gentleman of our neighborhood was induced to try the Tincture for a violent palpitation of the heart. He had suffered so much from it that he said be had prayed for death He had taken but three doses when he assured us he would not take five hundred dollars for the ben efit he had derived, and that he should never cease to remember us with gratitude for calling his attention to so valuable a medicine. Yours truly. GRAY & PENDLETON.

A Medicine must have merit, and great merit to to stand the test of public opinion. No art of puffin, can galvanize a worthless article, so as too keep i up as a good medicine if it be not really so.
A GOOD MEDICINE will live, become popular and extend its sales year after year, in spite of op-position. The people readily find out its virtues, and the fame of them passes from mouth to mouth with more rapidity than newspapers can spread it. A living witness testifying to the cure a medicine has made for him is of far more service than any newspaper advertising. In proof of what we say above, we refer you to

REAL ESTATE AGENCY,

A BORDER OUTRAGE BY ROBERT MORRIS, K. T. ..

Vicksburg, Miss., there was a miserable a poor chance to be felt or even heard. Amongst the ungodly reprobates that infested the land, living by no honest labor, and to no useful end, was one Eugene by practice, the terror of the more peaceable portion of the citizens. Damon was his wife was as much of the rowdy as he was, travelling with him in all his excursions, assisting him in time of need by counsel; and, unless common report scandalized her, lending a strong hand occasionally, when a strong hand was needed.

For several years this couple resided near a town I will call Wilder, a place now deserted, wrecked in the banking hurricane of 1837. There they occupied a neat, one story joying themselves very fast, when they get at it. This accounted for the updwelling, and for the ferretted of their barely in time, to escape the storm. eyes, and the pokeberry scarlet of their noses, observable on days subsequent.

Wilder produced its fisticuffing, shooting E. B. Perkins, Marietta, Ohio, Feb 22, 1851, and stabbing, there never was a difficulty usve used them. In a case of Liver Complaint, of of the sort at Damon's, thus corroborating Milton's "Devils with the devils damned hold concord; men only disagree!" 1

In the town of Wilder, traded the sub-Stomach, and found relief in every case. They are Co., produce and commission merchants. I say the substantial firm, for while all other houses smashed without assets of any sort, this establishment paid fifteen cents on the dollar; and so remarkable was this event considered at the time, that it was proposed in New York to present them with a service of plate. The house had just received a remittance of funds on account of some shipments of cotton, to the very handsome amount of four thousand dollars. It was duly homes, confident in its security as they the store was unlocked next morning, the safe, sad misnomer, was found to be wrenched open, the money drawer empty, and the valuable package abstracted.

Vain would be any attempt to describe the scene. Fahnestock collared Beverley. and demanded the money. Beverley want of law and morals. Might became than a match for the whole of them, and right, and weak handed justice stood but that although their thick whips were clotted with blood, and their arms weary with the exercise, his indomitable spirit defied them to the last. As he fell into a faint, they sat down, those four appren-Damon, a gambler by profession, a bully tice lynchers, to counsel with each other. It was past midnight. The sultry air of the river bottoms, occasionally heated a married man, and, what is strange, by one of those breaths that so inexplicably nieet the traveler in a summer night, gave evidence of a coming storm. The bite of the musquitoes that choked the very air in clouds were distressing beyond all endurance, and as the half-naked body of their prisoner bung backward in its faintness, the stripes of bloody skin, torn loose by their whip lashes, were quite hidden by their black, eager forms. What should they do ? The suggestion of Dr. Veneer cannot be entertained for a moment; the reader may readily guess what it was. Finally, it was decided that Damen should remain hanging there till morning, and the party would then return.

To remain there amongst the mosquitoes! Far more kind to have adopted the snorter plan of the Doctor's, and let the black mold of the canebrake cover its dead. But thunder clouds were banking up on every side, and the regulators hurried to the river, to get across in time, the howling of the blasts, the unpitied gambler returned to his senses. It had been the sleep of death, but for those very stings that aroused the life within him to resist their horrid attacks. The dash of cold rain upon his exposed wounds was grateful to the fever that scorched his very vitals, and, still better, it drove Thus, while every public meeting at away the mosquitoes. The lynchers were gone, that was sufficient evidence; he had not been whipped to death, as they threatened; and, now, could he but clear away these cords, vengeance was within his reach. O, how that hope strengthened question whether Milton was ever more his sinews to strain, and hardened his very teeth to gnaw at the very strong fibres that bound him. What a horrid stantial firm of Fahnestock, Beverley & laugh issued from his lungs, as the first band gave way. With what an exulting bound he sprang from the holly tree. whose virgin bark was now first stained by human blood, and with his right hand extended towards the Thunderer's throne. vowed death to the four, or death to him-

By noon the next day he was lying, all unknown to any one except his wife, at his own house in a state of high delirium. This continued for more than a month. during which time the strong minded woman hung over his bed by day and night, fed upon hopes of delicious revenge, F. gasping in his chair, B. cutting up the nor suffered a living soul to know that most extravagant pantomimes, and the her husband was there. her nearest neighbors did not suspect it. The four Lynchers discovered that Damon had freed himself, but finding no evidence that he had ever made his escape from Fahnestock, Beverley & Co., never heard the cane-brake, they agreed that he must have died there, so they concealed the guilty mystery of his disappearance in their breasts. Mrs. Damon caused an advertisement
